North Carolina Museum of Art Announces Summer Performing Arts Lineup

Concert, film series kicks off May 17

Raleigh, N.C.—The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces the 2013 summer schedule of outdoor concerts and films. The summer performing arts series includes nine concerts, 15 films, and three nights of a family favorite.

Outdoor Concert Series

The summer series begins with a performance by East L.A. band Los Lobos on May 17. The band embraces both the American experience and their Mexican heritage, drawing from rock, Tex-Mex, country, folk, R&B, blues, and traditional Spanish and Mexican music. Los Lobos has a longstanding relationship with the NCMA, and the Museum is delighted to welcome them back.

Glen Hansard (pictured left) returns to the NCMA stage on June 15, opened by Doug Paisley. After performing in popular Irish band The Frames and, more recently, with Marketa Irglova as The Swell Season, Hansard debuted his first solo album, Rhythm and Repose, last year to critical acclaim.

On June 29 the NCMA welcomes revered musicians and activists Amy Ray and Emily Saliers of Indigo Girls. These two Grammy-winning folk singers have sold more than 12 million albums and recently released their 14th studio album, Beauty Queen Sister.

On July 12 Dale Watson and The Lonestars perform, followed by a screening of the movie Bernie. Honkytonk hero and country music maverick Watson, a member of the Austin Music Hall of Fame, is a key contributor to the soundtrack of this black comedy set in East Texas and starring Jack Black, Shirley MacLaine, and Matthew McConaughey. Iris restaurant serves Texas BBQ brisket and Texas beer.

The fifth summer performance is Canadian stringband The Duhks on July 13. Inspired by Celtic and Appalachian stringband music, The Duhks perform a mix of contemporary, traditional, and original tunes with irresistible energy and musicianship.

Bruce Hornsby (pictured right) makes his first appearance at the NCMA on August 3 with his longtime bandmates the Noisemakers. The three-time Grammy-winning singer-pianist-composer and bandleader has tapped nearly every style of American popular music—folk, rock, jazz, bluegrass, classical, blues, and even electronica—and is sure to put on quite a show.

North Carolina native Tift Merritt performs on August 17. Merritt, whom All Music Guide calls “the Emmylou Harris of her generation,” recently released her fifth studio album, Traveling Alone, her most rewarding yet.

August 24 brings another music-movie combo to the summer stage. A performance by Cajun-rock band Lost Bayou Ramblers is followed by a showing of the Oscar-nominated film Beasts of the Southern Wild, set in coastal Louisiana’s bayou country. The Lost Bayou Ramblers were key contributors to the movie’s soundtrack. Iris restaurant offers Hurricanes and po’ boys.

On September 6 the NCMA hosts Portland-based ensemble Pink Martini. The band, which has toured the globe from New York to Paris, is known for its eclectic performances, crossing borders and genres of classical, jazz, and old-fashioned pop.
Family favorite Paperhand Puppet Intervention closes out the summer performing arts series, putting on three kid-friendly shows from September 13 through 15.

Outdoor Film Series

This year’s outdoor summer film series includes drama and comedy classics, such as Vertigo and The Big Lebowski, as well as new favorites such as Silver Linings Playbook, Lincoln, Argo, Life of Pi, The Perks of Being a Wallflower, Madagascar 3, and Skyfall. The complete film lineup will be posted to www.ncartmuseum.org on May 1.
