Celebration of Tradition: Ceremonial Judaica

This tour highlights the NCMA's strong collection of ceremonial objects reflecting Judaic worship, holy days, and home life. Both finely crafted historical artifacts and contemporary interpretations are featured.

A Woman's Work

This tour centers on the work and skill of women who have shaped the arts landscape by exploring form, representation, and narrative ownership. Artists featured include Mary Cassatt, Simone Leigh, Alison Saar, and more!

Cross-Collection Conversations: Exploring Interchanges

Playing on the unexpected, this tour focuses on the relationships and conversations between artworks that cross time, cultures, and place. For example, what might the 17th-century Dutch Feast of Esther and the 19th-century American Kitchen Ball at White Sulphur Springs, Virginia say in juxtaposed conversation?

Morning, Noon, and Night

Explore elements of light and color with this tour that highlights artists' renderings of the times of day.

Lost and Found: WWII and the Holocaust at the NCMA

The NCMA collection contains some special works of art that were lost or stolen during the Second World War and eventually recovered. Learn about the legacies of these works and how they found a home in our collection.

Artists' Materials and Processes

There is a plethora of elements that artists make use of to achieve their visions. This technical tour focuses on the materials and processes that artists engaged with to create some of the NCMA's most striking works.

Highlights

Let us choose an intriguing selection of works representing different cultures, time periods, and media for you to explore and enjoy.
